Suspect charged in church break-in

The suspect in a Thanksgiving week break-in at Holden Chapel has been arrested in Salem.

On Thanksgiving morning, Salem Police stopped a subject who was driving a stolen vehicle from Hudson and found credit cards belonging to Holden Chapel.

Shad St. Pierre, 30, of 53 Elm St., Marlboro, is being charged with breaking and entering, larceny, receiving and concealing stolen property, and malicious destruction of property in connection with the Holden Chapel incident. He faces charges in Salem of stealing a vehicle and is being held on $25,000 cash bail, Holden Police Chief George Sherrill said. St. Pierre is also being investigated in connection with thefts in Auburn.

A Holden Chapel worker reported the thefts on Wednesday, Nov. 26, when she arrived at the chapel to find doors open. Several doors had been broken in at Holden Chapel and cash and credit cards were stolen; a computer at the chapel was used, but was not stolen. - M.M.
