

SHARE Larger Text Smaller Text Print Email RSS Feeds

Tuesday, January 13, 2009

Woman trapped in Holden crash

Add a comment

HOLDEN — Holden and Rutland emergency personnel try to free a woman trapped in her car after an accident on Route 122A yesterday. Police temporarily shut down Route 122A (North Main Street) about 9:15 a.m. after a car headed south crashed into a parked vehicle. The woman in the parked car had to be extricated before she was taken to UMass Memorial Medical Center — University Campus in Worcester for evaluation of injuries that did not appear to be life-threatening, according to police. Police did not release the name of the woman in the parked car, or the name of the driver of the other vehicle. Police Officer Michael Joslyn is investigating the accident.

(T&G Staff / CHRISTINE PETERSON) Enlarge photo

 Click here to subscribe to the Telegram & Gazette

Add a comment

 Buzz up!

Ads by Yahoo!

CharmandHappy.com

Balloon artists, face painters, clowns, ponies and petting zoo, charmandhappy.com

Send a Singing Telegram

Costumed Singers w/ Balloons personalized Routine. nationwidesingingt

Singing Telegrams New York & Long

Custom-written songs. Same day service. NYC, Long Island, preppygrams.com telegram.com

The Day in Pictures

Grand Opening packages start at $139 a night

WorcesterWorks.com
TOPJobs

ORDERS PICKERS: Full time positions available for 2nd shift. Must be ...

Fiberoptic Technician: Good manual dexterity, familiar w / GMP ...

EQUIPMENT OPERATOR / FOREMAN Construction Co. in Oxford seeking ...